race that doesn't love to make music, even if it sounds alien to another nation.

The Congos seem to have and everyone looks at me as if I've gone bonkers. I can't help it, they're magic incantations, and by the sea and talking to fishermen, but every 16 seconds or so, they start up with that best Lee Perry production I've heard for ages. It sounds as if Scratch, who seemed to have to Rochdale disco-slop. HM wunderkinder Geoff Barton
